

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURAL BIOLOGY

In the Department of Agricultural Biology we study plants, microbes, and insects in order to describe their roles in agricultural and natural ecosystems. We are motivated by new discoveries and we share this knowledge with others so that we can all work together to improve ecosystem health and sustainability.

Office in Plant Sciences Building, Room C129
(970) 491-5261

agbio.agsci.colostate.edu (<https://agsci.colostate.edu/agbio/>)

Professor Noa Roman-Muniz, Interim Head
Chris Amerman, Student Success Coordinator