CERTIFICATE IN DESIGN THINKING

Open to all undergraduate students on-campus and through CSU Online, the Certificate in Design Thinking provides undergraduate students with an opportunity to explore creative approaches to solve problems. This human-centered approach explores the needs of society and applies elementary or emerging technologies — or tools — to inspire improvement and innovation in the development of spaces, objects, services, problems and ideas that define daily experiences and overall quality of life. Students will gain an awareness of the impact of design thinking and its application to their major, discipline, or profession.

Learn more about the Certificate in Design Thinking, including planned course offerings each semester, on the Nancy Richardson Design Center website. (https://www.chhs.colostate.edu/rdc/learn/)