

MAJOR IN FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES, INTERDISCIPLINARY CONCENTRATION

The Family and Consumer Sciences Interdisciplinary Concentration provides students with a focus on family and consumer well-being, growth, and development of family members, and the relationship of households to their environment. The interdisciplinary nature of this concentration brings together coursework in human development, family studies, nutrition and foods, consumer sciences, personal finance, apparel and textiles, design and merchandising, and health and wellness.

It is highly recommended that students participate in internships, volunteer activities, or cooperative extension opportunities to enhance their experiences and development. Graduates who seek advanced degrees often attain higher-level professional positions.

The concentration includes All-University Core Curriculum (<https://catalog.colostate.edu/general-catalog/all-university-core-curriculum/aucc/>) courses, subject matter courses, and elective courses to enhance personal and professional development.