

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN INCLUSIVE TEACHING STRATEGIES IN COLLEGE

The Graduate Certificate in Inclusive Teaching Strategies in College will provide students with theoretical knowledge and practical skills to effectively deliver face-to-face, hybrid, and online instruction in various post-secondary education settings including community colleges and large universities.

Students interested in graduate work should refer to the Graduate and Professional Bulletin (<http://catalog.colostate.edu/general-catalog/graduate-bulletin/>).

Learning Objectives

1. To prepare learners to effectively facilitate learning experiences within a post-secondary education environment.
2. To assist learners in becoming critically reflective practitioners capable of conducting courses within culturally diverse settings.
3. To encourage learners' individual and professional growth through collaborative and project-based learning environments.
