

DEPARTMENT OF FISH, WILDLIFE, AND CONSERVATION BIOLOGY

Office in Wagar Building, Room 109D

(970) 491-5020

warnercnr.colostate.edu/departments/fwcb (http:// warnercnr.colostate.edu/departments/fwcb/)

Professor Jennifer Boyd, Department Head

We are the only program in Colorado to offer comprehensive undergraduate and graduate education in Fish, Wildlife, and Conservation Biology. We have approximately 600 undergraduates and 60 graduate students enrolled in our programs and several thousand alumni who work to resolve local, regional, national, and international natural-resource related issues. We contribute to the economic and ecological health of society by assisting individuals and agencies to solve complex environmental problems.